A WONDERFUL METAMORPHIS.

Vouched for by "Eight Reliable Citizens" of Erie, Pennsylvania. How "Rosa Fear" Became "Charles Fear."

The Buffalo Courier publishes the following remarkable story sent by a correspondent at Erie, Pa.:

The following remarkable story is vouched for by eight reliable citizens of this city: William P. Baxter is a farmer, and has for many years owned a large farm situated between North East, Pa., and Ripley, N. Y. He is frequently in this city, where he is well known. Near to the Baxter farm there lives a family by the name of Fear, highly respected by their neighbors. About twenty-five years ago there was born in this family a girl, a sweet little cherub that became the pet of the neighborhood. They named her Rosa, and she grew up a lovely child, and in due time was sent to school. Here she distinguished herself by most extraordinary precocity. Her aptitude exceeded that of scholars ten years older than herself, and in less than two years she had passed every other pupil and stood at the head of her classes; the holder of all the honors competed for. At the age of fourteen she entered the service of Mrs. Baxter, the first wife of the farmer referred to. Rosa proved to be as good a girl for farm-house duties as she had been a student, and the Baxter family liked her so well that she was treated in every respect as though she was one of the family. She continued to live there, and when she had attained the age of eighteen her hand was sought in marriage by a young farmer from a neighboring village. For some reason, unaccountable at that time to her friends, Miss Fear declined the honorable offer, alleging that she had no desire to quit the roof of her kind friends. About this time it began to be noticed that Rosa's features were losing their feminine softness, and that the elegant contour of her hitherto symmetrical form was vanishing, and giving place to masculine angularity. Her hands that were once so well shaped began to grow large and coarse, and a down appeared on her upper lip. The presence of the latter greatly distressed her, and as it continued to grow in spite of all her efforts to prevent it, she became so ashamed that she refused to accompany the Baxters to the family pew in the village church, or to mingle in any of the socials or parties in which she had once been a courted belle. The family while deeply regretting the loss of Rosa's personal attractions, tried to laugh her out of her sensitiveness. But the girl appeared to be consumed with a secret.

About six months after this, Rosa did not appear as usual one morning. No answer came from her room, and when it was broken open it was found to have been unoccupied that night. All Rosa's clothes were hanging up, even to those she was accustomed to wear about the house. Mr. Baxter sent his son Charles to look in the barn, dreading to enter it himself, for a dreadful suspicion of suicide was uppermost in his thought. But Rosa was not in the barn, neither was she in any part of the farm. At last the searchers found two letters in her trunk, one addressed to Mrs. Baxter, the other to her parents. The contents of Mrs. Baxter's letter created the utmost consternation. It said that the writer had gone away; that it would be useless to follow her; that her life had become unbearable because within a year nature had worked a complete metamorphosis, unsexing her and making it necessary to change her home and habitation. The astonished Baxters discovered that she had left all her female clothing down to the minutest article, and that she had attired herself in a suit of clothes belonging to Dr. A. A. Freeman, now an alderman from the First Ward in this city. Dr. Freeman was a yearly visitor at the Baxter farm, and he frequently spends a day there still. He was well acquainted with Miss Fear when she was little Rosa, and he often saw her when she lived with the Baxters. He had been visiting there a week before the girl disappeared, and had left a suit of clothes behind him by mistake.

Two months passed and a letter came in Rosa's fine hand-writing. It informed the family that the writer was well and was working as a farm hand in Ohio; but that the stamp of the letter would give no clue to her address. Two years elapsed, and one morning a fine-looking young man with sun-burned face, magnificent beard and heavy, dark mustache, stood at the gate of the Fear homestead. "Do you know me, Mary?" he said to the young lady who came out to ascertain his business. The tones were deep and manly and there was a familiar ring in the stranger's voice. "It is Rosa," said the girl, and the next moment the spectators were regaled with a sight of Miss Mary Fear clasped in the arms of a young fellow, giving back as many kisses on his mustache as he showered upon her uplifted face. "Not Rosa, but Charles Fear now," said the whilom housemaid, and then he told them how, after that wonderful change, he had hired as male help; that he had made a little money and had come home to work the farm. Mr. Charles Fear runs that farm today, and Ripley has no citizen held in higher estimation than he. Since his return he has twice been appointed a teacher in the public schools, and he can be seen on the Fear farm every day of the week. Such is the remarkable story told to the Courier correspondent. The references given were hunted up, and although there was a reluctance to speak about it, all confirmed the story. Dr. Freeman was called upon regarding the suit of clothes, and he confirmed the account, stating also that he was acquainted with all the circumstances related. He further stated that in his opinion nature was undecided as to Fear's sex, and at the age mentioned masculinity developed.

Petty Worries.

What a blessed thing it is that we can forget. To-day's troubles look large, but a week hence they will be forgotten and buried out of sight. Says one writer: "If you would keep a book and daily put down the things that worry you and see what becomes of them, it would be a benefit to you."

You allow a thing to annoy you just as you allow a fly to settle on you and plague you; and you lose your temper, (or rather get it,) for when men are surcharged with temper they are said to have lost it, and justify themselves for being thrown off your balance by causes which you do not trace out. But if you would see what it was that threw you off your balance before breakfast and put it down in a little book, and follow it up and ascertain what becomes of it, you would see what a fool you were in the matter.

The art of forgetting is a blessed art, but the art of overlooking is quite as important. And if we should take time to write down the original progress and outcome of a few of our troubles, it would make us so ashamed of the fuss we make over them, that we should be glad to drop such things and bury them at once in eternal forgetfulness. Life is too short to be wore out in petty worries, frettings, hatred and vexation.

To be honest, as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand. —Shakespeare.

We are authorized to announce Col. J. SMITH HURT, of Bath County, as a candidate for Congress in the 9th Congressional District at the next November election. Subject to the action of the democratic party.

We are authorized to announce that Dr. A. G. BROWNING, of Fleming county, is a candidate for Congress, in this the (9th) district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The floating debt of Lexington is only $24,000.

Three hops will be given at Paris during the fair.

Wheat is worth ninety cents a bushel in Fleming county.

HON. P. W. HARDIN is a candidate for re-election as Attorney General.

The Clark county Democrats have instructed for Matt Adams for Congress.

Yellow fever reports are discouraging. The fearful disease is reported to have made its appearance at Pensacola. Another fatal case is reported at New Orleans.

A dispatch from Washington says that the Chief of the Postoffice department proposes to see that all the postmasters in the South are in thorough accord with the administration, or in other words the Half-Breeds are to be kicked out and Stalwarts put into their places.

The Washington correspondent of the Courier-Journal says:

An editorial in the National Republican gives what may be construed as the key-note for southern postmasters, who will, if they take the hint, along with other Federal office-holders in the south, dance up to the tune of the republican fiddle, or be prepared to discuss the reason why on business principles. One rather notable sentence in the article declares that "the democratic party has a larger number of active political agents at work in the south, drawing government pay, than has its opponents." Two department men, who have been rather free in their opinion that "no real republican gets anything under Mahone," were bounced and will go down to work against the "boss" and in the interest of the "straight-outs."

DR. A. G. BROWNING in withdrawing as a candidate for the Congressional nomination has written to Judge Harbeson a very manly letter from which we extract the following:

The contest just ended has been vigorous and warm; it gives me the utmost pleasure to add, it has been manly and decent! While we have at times, in a merely strategic way, tossed some harmless sand, no mud has been thrown, and no stains remain. You claimed my confidence and respect at the outset, I cheerfully assert that you now command it. Allow me to hope that our respective supporters, sharing the same spirit, will forget that they were ever Harbeson, Alexander or Browning men, and remembering only that they are Democrats, come up as one man for the nominee at Grayson on September 7th.

Family Ancestry.

A Brooklyn boy wrote a composition on the subject of the Quakers, whom he described as a sect who never quarreled, never got into a fight, never clawed each other and never jawed back. The production contained a postscript in these words: "Pa's a Quaker, but ma isn't."

The farmers are complaining of wheat sprouting in the shock on account of the wet weather. One planter near Washington estimates that he will lose 1,500 bushels.

Visitors to the camp-meeting at the Ruggles grounds, will do well to read J. M. Hawley's advertisement printed elsewhere.

General Wolsely has assumed command of the British forces at Alexandria. Three thousand additional troops were ordered to prepare immediately to proceed to Egypt to replace the sick and wounded. This is supposed to be the result of Wolsely's investigations, and ascertaining the total inadequacy of the British troops.

The Sultan has issued decrees authorizing the British admiral and commander of the force to occupy such points on the Suez Isthmus as they may think necessary, for military operations against Arabi's forces, and also authorizing the British to prevent the importation of coal and ammunitions of war along the coast between Alexandria and Port Said, and, in the event of any contravention of the order, to seize the prohibited articles.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunion be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunion to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints of limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for least as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. [J70.]

Abraham Lincoln's Parent's Marriage.

Captain J. W. Wartman has been able to secure what Ward Lamon and other biographers were unable to secure, a reliable record of the wedding of Abraham Lincoln's father and mother. The following affidavit on the subject will explain itself:

"I, Christopher C. Graham, now of Louisville, Ky., aged ninety-eight years, on my oath, say: That I was present at the marriage of Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, in Washington County, near the town of Springfield, Ky.; that one Jesse Head, a Methodist preacher, of Springfield, Ky., performed the ceremony. I knew the said Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks well, and knew the said Nancy Hanks to have been virtuous and respectable and of good parentage. I do not remember the exact date of the marriage, but was present at the marriage aforesaid; and I make this affidavit freely, and at the request of Captain J. W. Wartman, to whom, for the first time, I have this day incidentally stated the fact of my presence at the said wedding of President Lincoln's father and mother. I make this affidavit to vindicate the character of Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, and to put to rest forever the legitimacy of Abraham Lincoln's birth. I was formerly proprietor of Harrodsburg Springs. I am a retired physician, and am now a resident of Louisville, Ky. I think Felix Grundy was also present at the marriage of said Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, the father and mother of Abraham Lincoln. The said Jesse Head, the officiating minister at the marriage aforesaid, afterwards moved to Harrodsburg, Ky., and edited a paper there, and died at that place.

Putting Away the "Pathies."

The Century Magazine commends the New York Medical Society for adopting the new code permitting a physician of the "old school" to consult with any physician in good standing in other schools:

"Under the new régime the public ought to be able to judge more clearly of the character and ability of their physicians. The question will not be so much of the school as of the honorable standing of the individual among his comrades of both schools. When he is called hard names by his fellows, it ought hereafter to mean something more than a difference of opinion on matters of theory. Let the public be on its guard against supposedly 'regular' physicians, who are known among their brethren as 'commercial doctors.' These men, with the indorsement of titles, or a membership in some respectable medical society, prostitute their learning by indulgence in 'clap-trap,' by the recommendation of 'cures,' and by useless and unnecessary operations, performed on every occasion and upon every patient, no matter what may be his disease. One will discover that one particular part of the body is the seat of a morbid process, and proceed to remove it by a mysterious operation; while another will prescribe a remedy which can be procured only at a certain place, and can be taken only in a certain position. A more matter-of-fact practitioner will suggest the extent and value of his practice by means of a pile of bank notes of large denominations exposed upon his desk. With these men no code of ethics is of the slightest use, and their more honest and plodding fellow-physicians must bear the disgrace thus brought upon their calling. But if the profession itself finds it difficult to deal technically with such men, the public, as we have said, ought to be better able to discern them now that the allopaths are disposed, in their public attitude and private conversation, to reserve their harsh criticisms for real offenders."

Imitation pink pearls are now carved out of very pale-tinted coral, and these so closely resemble the real pearl that the eye of an expert is needed to detect the difference.
